DANVILLE HIGH SCHOOL

DANVILLE, INDIANA

It has been said that "you can't take it with you." Yet these days at DHS — formatives as they are — will always be a part of the lives of Danville students.

When students leave this world of classrooms, textbooks, and examinations and are ready to find their places in the communities around them, they will realize the values of these years of togetherness and of finding and deciding of a way of life.

However, classes won't be all they'll remember; the many activities that are woven into the busy class schedule will take a high place in their list of pleasant memories.

Yes, these school days are ones they'll relive tomorrow . . . the day after tomorrow . . . again and again . . . These memories can be taken with them.

This then, is the Tom Tom, a picture story of 1960-1961 in Danville High School . . . a story "you can take with you" and remember that "Together We Grow".

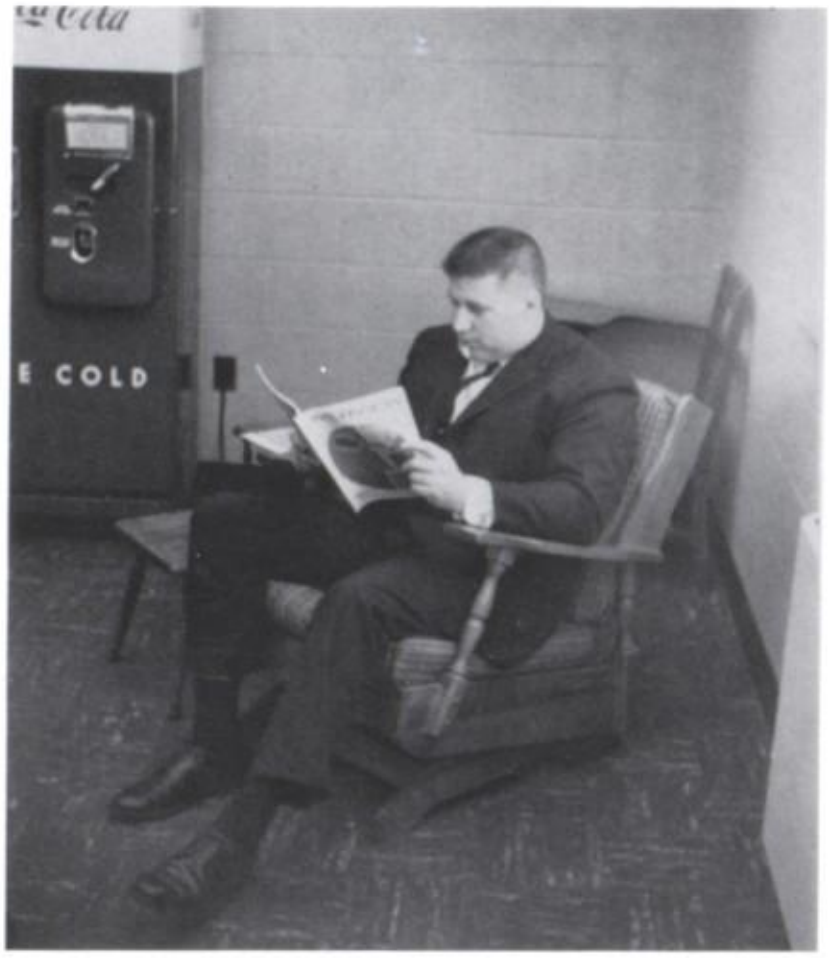
Typical Days At DHS Are Spiced



Gene Wilson, head football coach, takes time out from his busy teaching schedule to relax in the lounge provided for men teachers.

Typical days at DHS featured senior cords, work, and relaxation. Danville students saw many fads and fancies come and go and watched autumn skies turn to gray as winter blanketed the town and finally to crystal blue as spring made its first appearance. They saw bewildered seventh graders, who were being orientated, stare in wonderment at their high school. They saw the elated seniors' get-out-of school glow turn to a tear as "Pomp and Circumstance" played at graduation.

Yes, Danville students saw one entire year go by and prepared themselves for their new positions as graduates, seniors, juniors, sophomores, freshmen, and eighth graders.

Seniors went all out this year for the traditional senior cords. Here, Bob Brock models his cords in front of his fellow classmates. Organization emblems, activities, names, and Danville Warriors made up the colorful senior cords.

With Work, Fun And Pleasant Memories

The seniors will always remember the fun they had in meetings at someone's house to paint their senior cords. Road runners, apples, the class motto and the class flower, and favorite sayings were typical of most of the skirts and pants.

Harold Grammer proofreads a finished copy as Co-Editor Pat Pedigo and Literary Editor Judy Evans hash out some of the many yearbook problems.

Occasionally, Mr. Cox finds a few moments at noon to participate in a game of ping-pong with the students.

First Graders Through Seniors

DHS seniors look back on the first grade with pleasant memories.

Norma McGonigal modeled her corduroy overalls.

Sandy Joyce and Bill Patterson were "steadies" in the sixth grade.

The seniors enjoyed their seventh grade class party.

Senior girls were also seventh graders, but who would know the difference?

Enjoy Extra-Curricular Activities At D.H.S.

Senior girls built pyramids at their slumber parties when they were juniors.

Seniors were glad that their busy junior year was over even though they found time for no sleep.

Sally Howard and Norman Dininger enjoyed themselves at Jake's birthday party.

The "Roaring 20's" returned at the sophomore class party.

Attempting the Charleston, b o t h sophomore boys and girls found their class party fun.

Twenty-Seven Minutes Proves Hectic.

Seniors enjoyed seeing their fellow classmates at noon and having some friendly conversation with them after eating.

A familiar sound at DHS was that of Danville students piling in the cafeteria at noon. With only 27 minutes for lunch, students and teachers found that period a rush, rush proposition. It was not unusual to see line cutter-inners among the students, but the less fortunate teachers, who were on the lookout for this, had to wait at the end of the line.

The seniors put three tables together so that there would be plenty of room for all. They rushed through their meals, and some just decided to drink cokes to avoid the whole ordeal, so they could get a few minutes in of dancing — relaxation, you know.

RING, the inevitable sign of the bell, and off trudged the students and teachers alike, relaxed and refreshed by their noon break.

Even though the records were not new, students liked to dance the last part of their lunch periods.

Some teachers found a coffee break before eating lunch relaxing.

Christmas Is Portrayed In Many Lands

In the annual Christmas pageant, presented by the speech classes, Phyllis Underwood and Jake Frey portray typical German parents.

In the Manger Scene, Connie Hanson, as Mary, and Paul Tucker, as Joseph, look on the baby Jesus.

Spanish speaking countries celebrate Christmas by breaking a pinata, a papier-mache sphere filled with candy.

The French people celebrate the Holy season by burning incense and stringing pop corn to decorate their trees.

Sports And Recreation Find

After all home football and basketball games, DHS students are invited to attend the canteens sponsored by the PTA.

Sports and recreation, going hand in hand, entertained DHS students and helped them to relax from their school tensions. Before games, Booster Club members made posters and practiced new yells. The team practiced every day in order to play their best and make this a winning season. Cheerleaders did their part in helping to win the games, also. They met every week to plan new pep sessions. Following all home games many students attended the PTA canteens to relax and have a good time.

J. C. Burnell looks for someone to pass to as he brings down a rebound in the Brownsburg basketball game.

A Place In The Busy Schedule

Cheerleaders Janice, Sandy, Pat, and Cynthia led fans in a victory yell during a pep session.

Before the game, and during half-time, Bob Lawson and Phyllis Underwood symbolized the Warriors, as they dressed to the part and helped create a winning atmosphere.

One of the many ideas for pep session was for the girls to pose as team members and give speeches as the team would have done.

The type of football our team played during the season is demonstrated here, as the Warrior defense swarms a Brownsburg ball carrier for a ten yard loss.

Science And Math Are Vital

Russell Kirts aids chemistry students in an experiment with oxygen.

Test tubes, Bunsen burners, dissections, and formulas are all familiar items to DHS science pupils. Bob Etienne, Max Gibbs, and Russell Kirts all teach science subjects in hopes of stimulating our "gray matter."

DHS has a complete science department including g e n e r a l science, physical science, chemistry, and physics. Also, an up-to-date lab and equipment are available to DHS students, making experiments easy to perform.

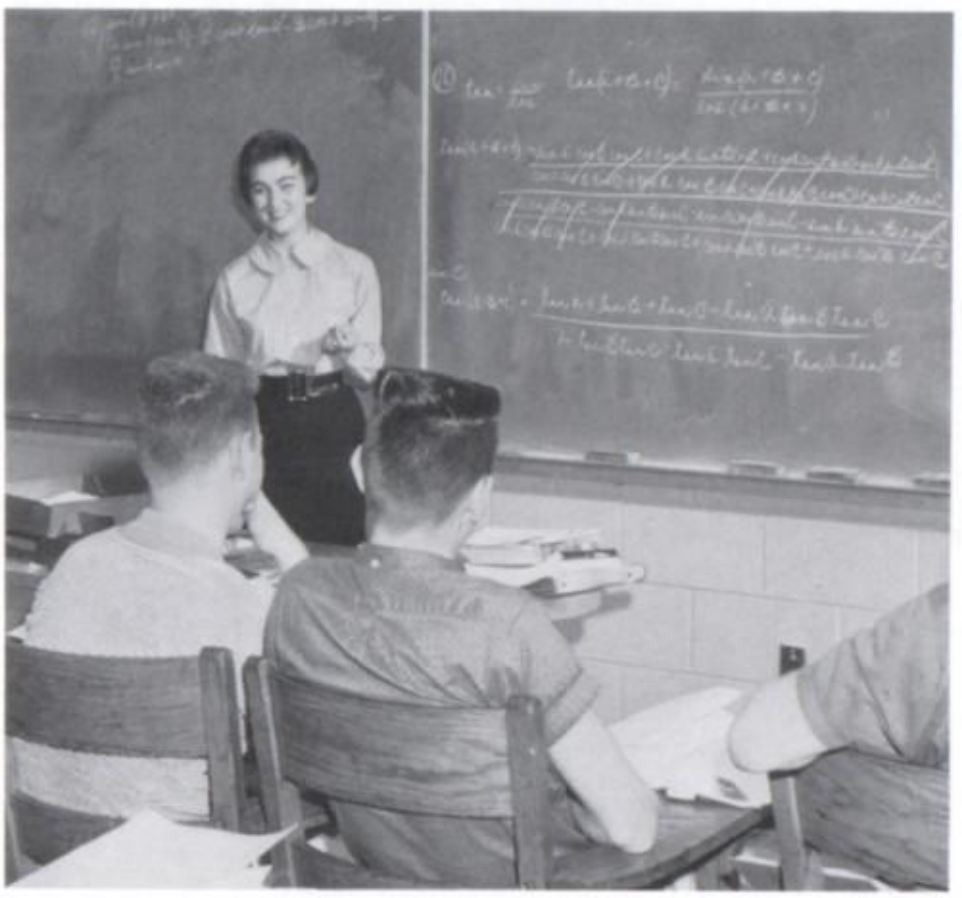
Biology students study fish and water life of various types.

Physics pupils learn the principle of magnetism in electricity.

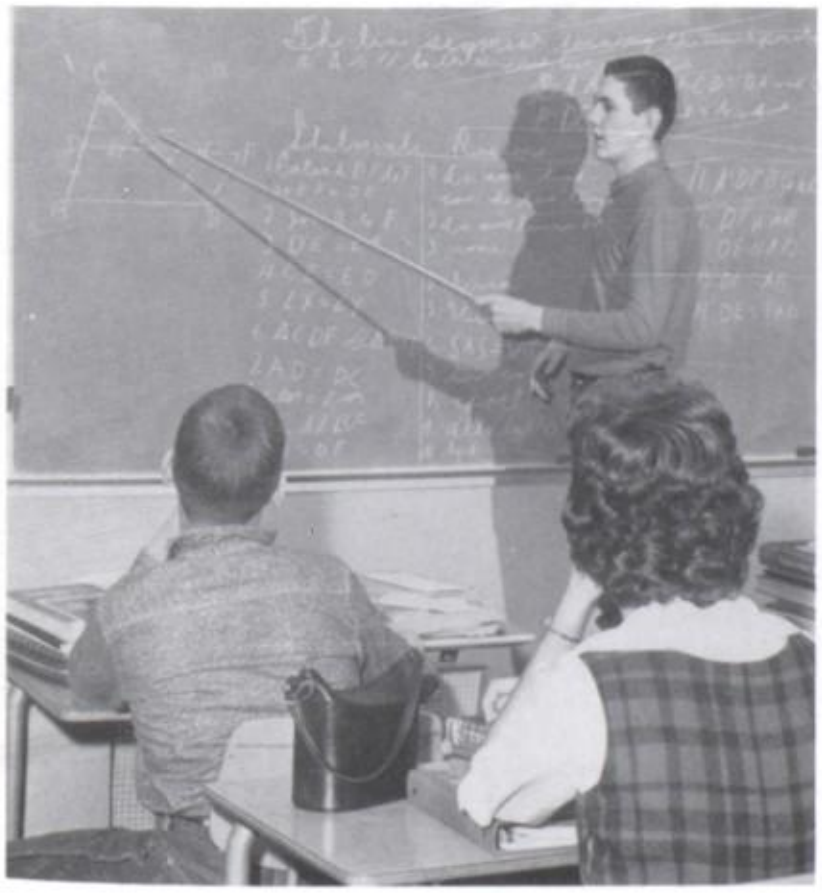
Factors In America's Progress

Slide rules, compasses, protractors, and straight edges are common instruments to DHS math students. Danville has stressed its math courses because math has been highly emphasized in recent years. General math, algebra, plane geometry, and advanced algebra, are the full year courses offered. Solid geometry and trigonometry are one semester courses, which prepare students more fully for a higher education.

Edward Etienne, Rosemary Helton, and Russell Kirts are the teachers who stimulate interest and guide the students through the math courses.



Janice Anderson explains a long trigonometry problem concerning logarithms.



Ed Rose works out a theorem for his classmates in plane geometry.

Ed Etienne explains determinants to his Advanced Algebra class.

Principles Of Good English Are Important

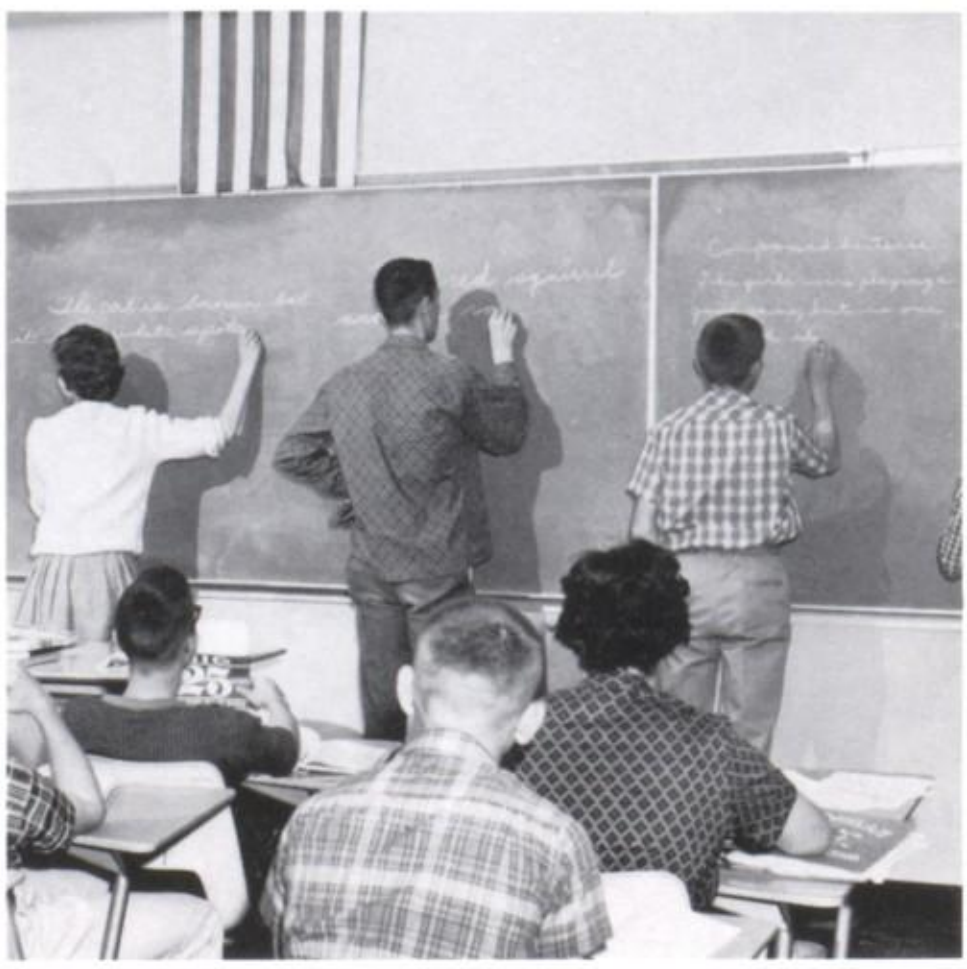
Seniors keep the library busy while writing their themes for Mabel Pritchett's English class.

English is one of the hardest languages to learn. DHS pupils certainly agree to this as they study prepositions, verbs, pronouns, and an array of other parts of speech and usages.

Louise Dollens, Vera English, Mildred Hoge, William Kassis, and Mabel Pritchett all help Danville students to understand this language of ours by teaching grammar one semester and either American or English literature the other semester.

An English major of three years is required to graduate from DHS, but a senior year of English is offered, along with speech and journalism which complete six possible years of English.

Rusty Davis and Peggy Collins make good use of the reference books in the library while trying to get their required work in on time.



Freshmen work on the structure of a sentence in William Kassis's English class.

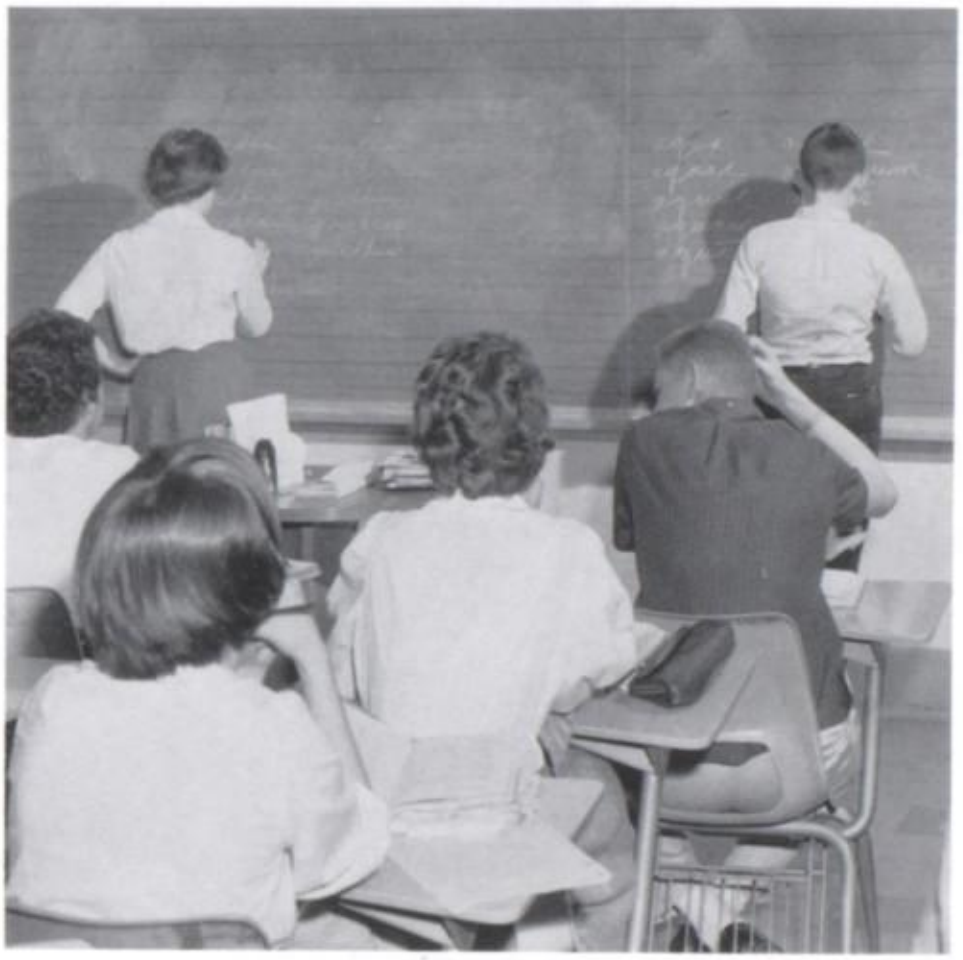
Languages Lend To Understanding

Although Latin is no longer a spoken language, it is important to many professions. For instance, doctors and lawyers must know many Latin terms.

Spanish, by the same token, is important to many professions. To understand our neighbors south of the border, we must understand their language.

Mildred Hoge and William Kassis teach Latin, while Wanda Keck teaches Spanish. Together, then, these three teachers head the language department at DHS.

Both Spanish and Latin have been formed into clubs in the anticipation of creating more interest in these languages.



The declension of nouns is among the many things that Latin students learn.

Advanced Spanish pupils sight translate from Spanish readers and magazines.

Students Become Leaders Of The Business World

Second year typing students work to increase speed and efficiency, which are vital assets in office work.

Danville students gain fundamental knowledge and practical experience in the business courses.

These courses offered include Typing I and II, Shorthand I and II, Bookkeeping I and II, general business, and for the first time in DHS history, business arithmetic.

This year the commerce department sponsored a three-act play, "The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis," to raise money for pins and awards.

Also, Indiana Central Business College and Indiana Farm Bureau were hosts to 49 commerce students who toured their buildings.

With the superb guidance of Bonnie Eggers, Vivian Gilham, and Geraldene Huffman, who teach these subjects, interest is stimulated in each of the commerce courses.

Shorthand students who are preparing for secretarial careers often take dictation from a tape recorder.

Business arithmetic and bookkeeping pupils learn the necessity of accurately filling out income tax reports.

Lessons From Past Prepare Us For The Future

Courses in the Social Studies department range from World History and U.S. History — the study of the founding of our civilization — to government, sociology, and economics — the study of problems of today.

A special project this year of the junior history and senior government classes was a trip to the Indiana General Assembly in Indianapolis.

U.S. History is taught by Vera English; World History by Wanda Keck; History 8 and citizenship by Robert Leedy; and Government, sociology, citizenship, and U.S. History are taught by Gene Wilson.

Juniors in Vera English's history class learn about the history of the United States.

Sophomores watch attentively as Judy Gill points out the answer to a question on a map of the world.

Everyone knows the answer to Robert Leedy's question concerning the history of Indiana.

Home Ec. And Shop Offer Useful Skills And Counseling

Sophomores learn new trades in shop.

Future engineers and draftsmen are given a preview of future careers through a mechanical drawing course which is taught by David Jones. Among the many types of drawing offered are orthographic, pictorial, detail and architectural.

Also taught by David Jones, the shop class busies itself with woodworking and other shop projects which are usually constructed in groups. These two departments are very complete and modern.

Boys develop an eye for exactness in mechanical drawing.

Danville students are trained for special skills, including home economics, shop and mechanical drawing.

The home economics department, headed by Margaret Scearce, strives to present a program that will round out a girl's homemaking skills. Included within the four-year high school program are sewing, cooking, and a home nursing and a family relations course. The home economics department has six complete kitchen units, one demonstration unit, a dishwasher, clotheswasher and dryer, seventeen sewing machines, and a grooming center. This department is one of the most complete and up to date in the state.

Eighth Graders learn the art of sewing in their first year of home economics.

Art And Music Encourage Talent And Appreciation

Along with all the other activities at Danville, there is culture in the art and music departments.

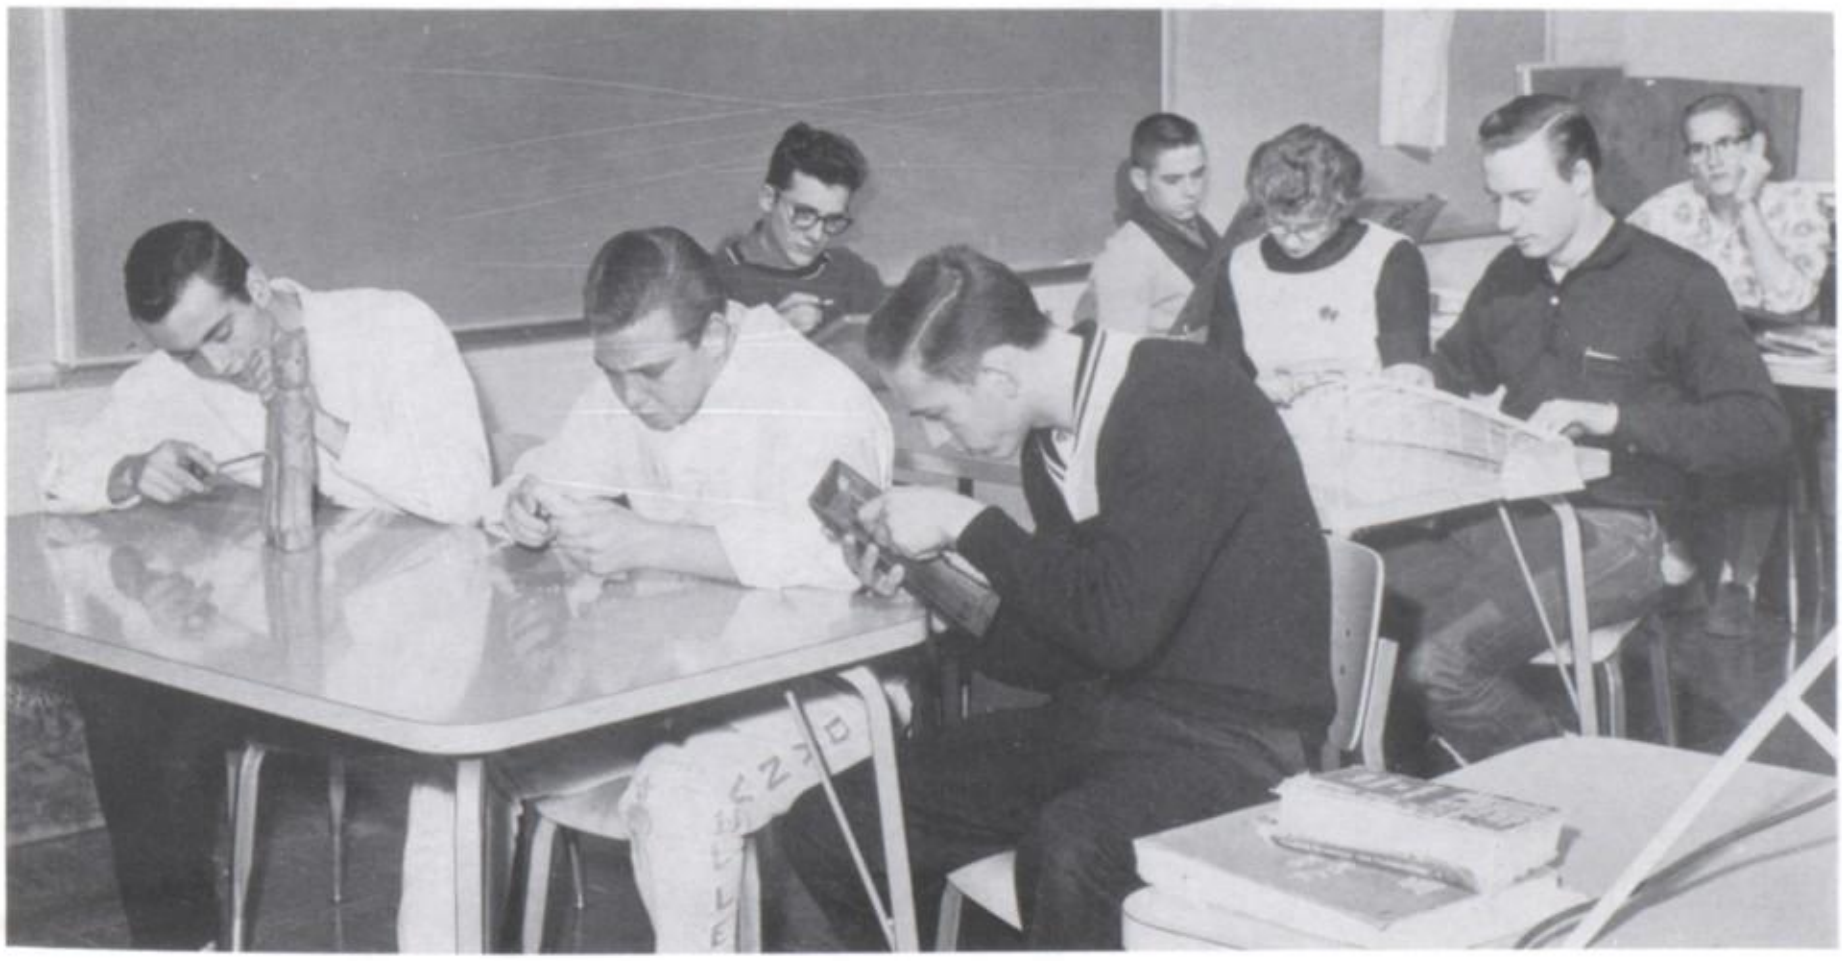
Art is taught by Betty Pritchard. The students carved, painted, pasteled, charcoaled, and even built various things out of toothpicks.

The DHS Band, directed by Lynn Jones, was very busy this year, with all its concerts and programs. The most impressive of its activities was the "Southern" Senior Concert.

Jack Petermann, who directed the DHS choruses, worked diligently to make Danville's choir the success that it was. The Robed Choir highlighted its year with a tour.

Danville's art and music departments add spice to the everyday school work of DHS pupils and allow them to express themselves through the creativeness of art and music.

First period each morning, Lynn Jones meets with the DHS Band to practice for ballgames, school programs, and concerts.



Art student are busy as bees with all the different projects that must be completed. Dave Clark, Jack Fender, and Denny Rader are working on carving projects. Harold Grammer is building a boat with toothpicks. Bob Lawson, Peg Weakley, Ronnie Tschudi, and David Hadley are painting.

Gym And Drivers' Ed. Develop Skills And Good Attitudes

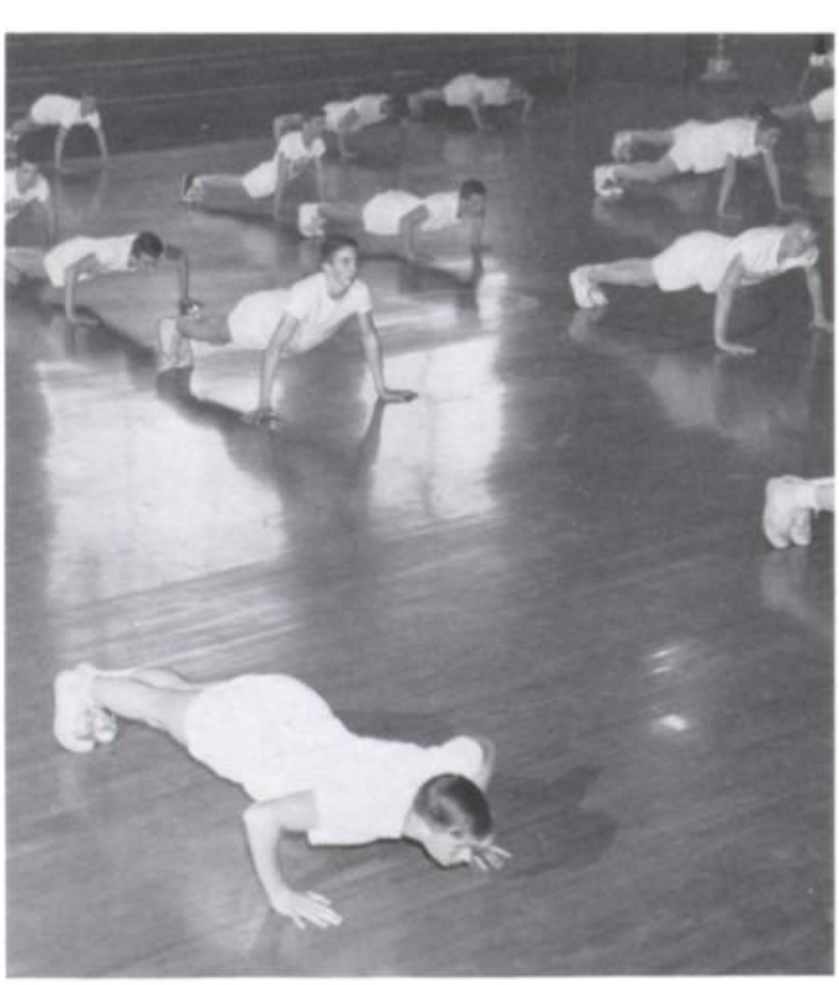
Max Gibbs, drivers' education instructor, points out the various parts of a motor, while students look on.

Drivers' education and boys' and girls' physical education add variety to the daily routine at DHS.

Max Gibbs, driving instructor, allows his students to drive part of the time and study from the text on the days they don't drive. They study all the "rules of the road" and put them to practical use.

Being physically fit is just as important as being mentally fit. Realizing this, Danville offers physical education, supplemented with citizenship for freshmen, to both freshmen and sophomores.

The students, who may use the nearby park, get a taste of a lot of different kinds of sports including basketball, tumbling, kickball, dodgeball, volleyball, baseball and tennis.



Boys' physical education classes participate in exercises before organized games.

DHS girls find volleyball a favorite sport.

Extras Give Variety To Our School

Danville keeps its students busy with lessons, sports, and preparation for higher education.

Students spend many hours in the school library writing term papers, compositions, and reports of all kinds. They learn to use the library and all its facilities.

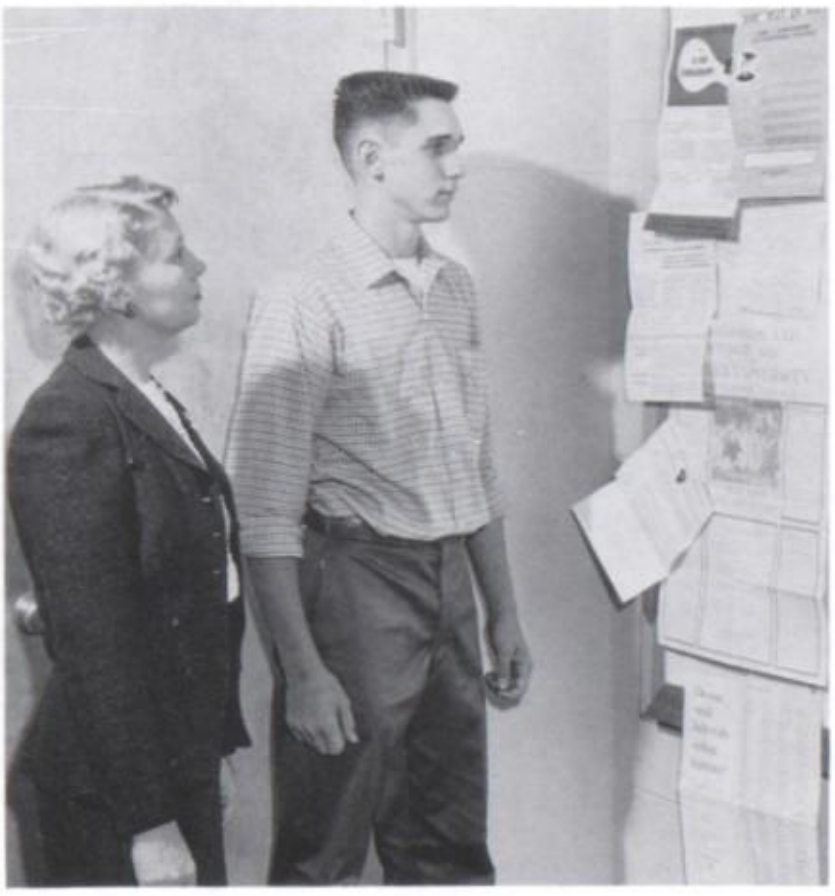
In the upstairs halls, students may admire the trophies which DHS sportsmen have won. Three trophy cases are completely filled, but DHS students keep on earning more awards in the anticipation of filling another one.

Alas, after studying and participating in sports, students must decide on after-graduation plans. Bonnie Eggers, guidance director, aids pupils in this field and encourages them to go on to college.

Thus, DHS is a busy place with all its activities and plans for the future.

Becky Parsons and Bill Montgomery, sophomores, make use of the card catalogue in DHS's library.

Lettermen, Larry Morris, senior, and Art Bryant and Mike Lynch, juniors, admire the trophies won for various sports activities.



Bonnie Eggers, guidance director, helps Bill Kraft with his questions about colleges.

Togetherness In Activities Provides Many Pleasant Memories

Many times too late we realize all the pleasure and enjoyment that have been ours . . . and we can take with us only the memories of these good times. One of the most pleasant memories is that of joining with others in the organization of clubs and social groups. Banquets, money-raising campaigns, and parties keep us busy a great deal of the time . . . and all these things contribute to making ours a well-rounded life.

Now that another year is almost over, there may come a spare moment now and then to relive the pleasures of 1960-1961 . . . of the enjoyment we've had . . . of the memories "we can take with us" of DHS.

Homecoming

Highlighting the 1960 football season was the Homecoming, October 7, sponsored by the Student Council. The familiar faces of many DHS graduates were seen this special night. Honored guests were the football team and the cheerleaders of 1944. Mrs. Betty Abel, '44 cheerleader, led the fans in a yell during half time.

The week preceding Homecoming was packed full of activities: decorating floats, voting for queen, and preparing for the parade. On the big night a long parade made its way slowly down to the football field where everyone witnessed an exciting game with Brownsburg. The Warriors were victorious and put the Bulldogs in the "dog-house" with a score of 32-21.

Following the game, the annual Homecoming Dance was held in the Grid Room. Also after the game many graduates of DHS enjoyed reminiscing during the Alumni Hour in the Home Economics Room.

Janet Rohn, senior football candidate, afforded the "Mighty Warriors" with a double victory.

Queen Janet was the center of attraction during the half-time ceremonies. Other candidates were Louise Cummins, freshman; Judy Evans, senior; Jill Crise, sophomore; and Janet Stephenson, junior.

Victories Highlight Football Season

"Iron 'Em Out," the motto of the winning freshman class float, was symbolized by a big iron flattening a Brownsburg player.

Janet Rohn is congratulated by Steve Watson and Bob Brock.

Future Memories Are Made, Old Ones Relived

Attending to last minute preparations for the parade, the seniors anticipate a first prize. However, they received Honorable Mention.

Ringing the DHS victory bell, four members of the football team show their excitement for the all important victory over the Brownsburg Bulldogs.

Senior girls, still going strong after the excitement, enjoy the annual Homecoming Dance.

Mrs. Eggers, sponsor of the Student Council, was hostess to the DHS alumni at the Alumni Hour following the game.

Freshmen Welcomed To DHS Through Rainbow Portal

Every color of the rainbow could be seen in the Washington Street Gymnasium, October 1 at the annual Freshman Reception. "Somewhere Over the Rainbow" was the theme of this — the first formal dance of the year. All the colors of the rainbow were carried out in the crepe paper decorations and in the silver rainbow which, reflecting colored lights, gave an illusion of rainbow hues.

After ninety-two freshmen had been introduced by seniors and the welcome and acceptance speeches had been delivered, couples danced to the music of the Rich Carlson Band.

Adding to the enjoyment of the evening Pat Leavitt, senior, entertained with two impromptu songs.

Entering through the rainbow portal, Sandy Joyce introduces Richard Huffman.

Freshmen and seniors enjoy an evening of dancing and entertainment.

Candy Cane Theme "Sweetens" Evening.

The Christmas season, highlighted by the annual Christmas Dance, was indeed a happy time at DHS. Snow Queen, Phyllis Underwood, reigned over the dance which was held in the grid room. "Candy Canes", the theme of the dance, was carried out in the gala decorations of red and white crepe paper. Also, two extra large candy canes located in the center of the floor formed the background for the crowning of the queen. For this special night of December 21, the Lynn Jones' Band furnished the music to set our feet-a-dancing. The dance is sponsored jointly by the Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y.

Couples enjoy refreshments and a chance to catch their breath between dances.

In order to vote for Snow Queen each person had to present a wrapped gift for a needy child.

Girls "Turn Tables On Boys" At Sweetheart Dance

Junior candidate, Steve Wilson, was crowned "King of All Young Hearts" by GAA persident, Judy Rodney, at the annual Sweetheart Dance, February 4, in the Washington Street Gymnasium. Other candidates were: Dave Parent, senior; Dwaine Otoupal, sophomore; Jake Frey, GAA candidate; and Doug Ledgerwood, freshman.

Abstaining from the traditional red and white decorations, the dance floor was arrayed in dark blue and powder blue, GAA colors, with a large white heart trimmed in blue forming the background for the crowning.

Lynn Jones's Band furnished the gala music for this memorable evening.

Judy Rodney placed the crown on Steve's head as he stepped through a large crepe paper heart.

Julia Thompson, junior, and Jake Frey, senior, danced the night away.

King Steve asked his date, Penny Terry, to hold his crown while he seated himself.

"Lilac Time" Was Theme Of

Danville's largest Junior-Senior Reception was held April 29, 1961, at the Indiana University Medical Center in Indianapolis. The formal dinner-dance began at 7 p.m.

The theme, "Lilac Time," and the lavender decorations featured the senior colors, lavender and white, and the senior flower, the orchid.

Music for the dance, from 9 to 12 p.m., was furnished by Herman Koer's Headliners. Special numbers were presented by senior, Pat Leavitt, and junior, Denny Wynn.

All juniors, seniors, teachers, and guests were invited to this annual dinner-dance sponsored by the juniors in honor of the seniors.

Pat Cox pins on her husband's boutonniere before joining the others in the dining room.

Annual Junior-Senior Reception

Charlie Bryant, senior, thoroughly enjoyed his dinner at the reception.

Seniors, accompanied by the Headliners, decided to initiate a new dance.

Junior boys find senior girls fun to be with and more "grown up."

Teachers and their guests enjoyed the reception, too, as most of them stayed until the doors were closed.

Senior Pat Leavitt entertained an attentive audience with the song, "Graduation Day."

"Royal Steadies," Cathie Myers And

What an evening to remember! Cathie's high school days were complete as she and her beau, Bill Patterson, reigned as May Prom Queen and Robin Hood.

Bill Patterson, Robin Hood, crowned Cathie Myers, May Queen, at the 28th annual May Prom, Saturday night, May 13, at the Washington Street Gymnasium.

The Roy Hampton Dance Band entertained with music for the dance from 8 to 11 p.m.

Midnight blue and white crepe paper with lavender lights illuminating the dance floor were the decorations for the prom. "Lavender Blue" was the theme of the dance carrying out the senior class colors of lavender and white.

Bill Patterson Reign Over May Prom

Diana Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cox, was flower girl with Chuck Patterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Patterson, as crown bearer.

May Prom Queen and Robin Hood thoroughly enjoy an evening of everlasting memories.

Seniors Enact Top Play, A

Senior class president, Steve Watson, presents Vera English with two dozen red roses while Janice Anderson, vice-president, awaits the presentation of an engraved charm bracelet.

"Have you gotten the properties?" "Learn those lines!" "When will the scenery be ready?" For the seniors, these words were heard many times during the three weeks preceding the presentation of the play, "Take Your Medicine." The entire play took place in a hospital room. This three-act farce was centered around the eccentric bank president, Mr. Dodson and the happy-go-lucky "Santa Claus", Mr. Puckett.

Under the direction of Vera English, the play was presented March 10, 1961, in the Washington Street Gymnasium to an audience of approximately 500. As the curtain fell, it brought an end to many weeks of hard work, fun, and memorable experiences for the class of '61.

Three-Act Comedy, "Take Your Medicine"

Grumpy Mr. Dodson is not pleased with the surprise visit of his niece, Miss Warren, and her fiance, Dr. Jackson.

Backstage conversation helped to loosen the mounting tension before "Take Your Medicine" was presented.

Jack, the orderly, brings Santa Claus a bouquet of flowers as Lottie and Dottie look on in admiration.

Sally Royals and Glenda Gedek gave a "between acts" tap dance.

Between the second and third acts of the play, the Senior Girls' Sextet sang "I Enjoy Being a Girl."

Girls Model Home Ec. Projects At Style Show

Margaret Scearce, DHS home economics teacher for 33 years, was to be commended for the successful style show.

Eighth graders, freshmen, juniors, and seniors enrolled in home economics sewing classes annually model their projects for a credit in home economics.

The girls stepped out of a golden picture frame, which helped carry out the theme, "Pretty as a Picture."

Sally Royals, senior, narrated the Home Economics Style Show, May 16, in the Bosstick Gymnasium.

Slacks, bermudas, coats, suits, formals, graduation dresses, and basic cotton skirts and blouses were modeled by the girls who were carefully supervised by Margaret Scearce.

Glenda Gedek modeled a black raincoat quite suitable for the months of April and May.

Tuesday, May 17, 1961, marked the sixth annual Award Night ceremony. Students looked forward to this night, as most of the awards were surprises.

Awards were presented throughout the year; however, many of them were issued on this night. DHS is not the only source of awards, for the American Legion, the American Legion Auxiliary, Epsilon Sigma Alpha, and Tri Kappa all participate in the presentation of special awards for various achievements.

DHS was proud of its scholars and athletes and strived to honor all those who were deserving.

Jake Frey and Norman Dininger admire the track team's two Hendricks County Championship trophies.

Norma McGonigal, Tom Tom Co-Editor, Mrs. Huffman, Yearbook Adviser, and Janice Wilson helped to serve at the pitch-in dinner.

The third annual Publications Dinner, sponsored by the Quill and Scroll, was held Tuesday, May 9, in the high school cafeteria. The purpose of this banquet is to honor both 1961 and 1962 staff members of the Tom Tom and Pow Wow.

Old and new staff members attended with their parents. Each person brought a covered dish for the pitch-in dinner.

The highlight of the program was the announcement of next year's co-editors, literary editor, and staff members of the Tom Tom and also the announcement of next year's editor-in-chief, news editor, and staff members of the Pow Wow.

Carol Harvey, vice-president of the Tri-Hi-Y, began the Tri-Hi-Y installation ceremonies by lighting the candles representing truth and all the races.

"M is for the many things she gave me . . ." Keeping this familiar poem in mind, DHS girls honored their mothers twice this year with a tea and a banquet.

May 10, the Tri-Hi-Y sponsored a special Mothers' Tea. The new Tri-Hi-Y officers were installed before the mothers and girls adjourned to the cafeteria for punch and cookies.

Following this occasion was the Girls' Club Mother-Daughter Banquet, May 12. After-dinner music was provided by the Double Quartet, and the manager of Indiana University's World Travel Service, Mr. Robert Bennett, spoke to the group and showed them films from around the world.

The speaker's table at the Mother-Daughter Banquet consisted of not only speakers, but also officers, sponsors, and guests.

Mothers enjoyed afternoon refreshments and visiting with their daughters at the annual Mothers' Tea.

Professions Previewed In Job-O-Rama

Bonnie Eggers, Student Council Sponsor, presents President Norman Dininger with material for his career day welcome speech.

The annual high school Job-O-Rama, held March 29 this year, receives much credit for helping high school students learn more about various occupations and assists them in finding the field in which they are most interested.

The Student Council, sponsor of this career day, invites men and women who are specialists in their fields to present the pros and cons of their particular profession.

Among the twenty-two fields represented were armed forces, dramatics, engineering, law, modeling, nursing, secretarial, and teaching.

Mr. Gue attended the Job-O-Rama to speak to those students interested in engineering.

Teaching is the occupation of Professor Lang, who spoke to students interested in becoming teachers.

Senior Concert Depicted Southern Setting

The 1961 Danville High School Senior Band Concert featured three senior soloists: Inez Van Horn, French horn; Jerry Smith, trumpet; and Sandra Kay Gentry, twirler.

Now in its second year, the Senior Concert was conceived to offer each senior band student an opportunity to perform as soloist with the organization of which he has been a member for eight semesters. This time also represents an average of 600 hours of work in preparation for various concert programs and public performances.

This year's Senior Concert was held May 19, 1961, in the Bosstick Gymnasium, at 8:00 P.M. The concert was played on the bank of a 200-gallon lake, "deep in the heart of Dixie," constructed especially for the concert. The concert theme, introduced in the form of elaborate stage setting and lighting, was "In a Southern Setting."

Mrs. Avis Walls of Danville, teacher for 39 years, who retired this year, was guest of honor at the 1961 Danville High School Senior Concert. Former students and friends of Mrs. Walls attended the concert and expressed their sincere congratulations to her.

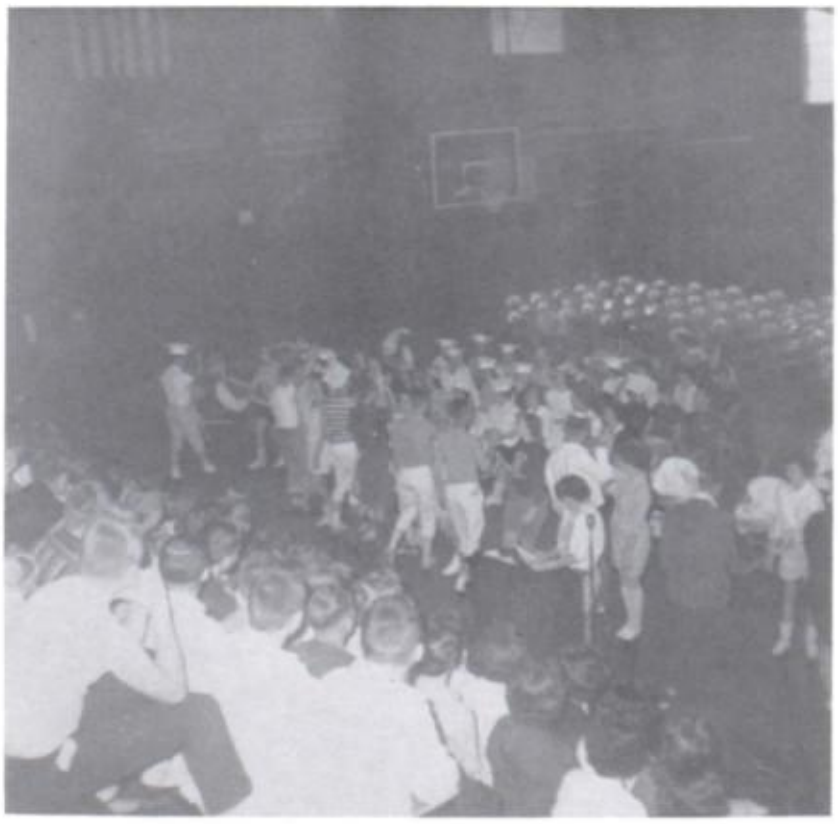
Doug Manes, sophomore, escorted Avis Walls to her chair of honor.

Fun, Fears, Joy, And Tears

Steve Watson, senior class president, explained the Senior Day activities.

DHS seniors of 1961 set a precedent to future seniors in their senior day program. They presented a program consisting of a funny and a serious part. During the funny segment, the seniors presented to their audience a mimic senior party. One group entertained to the tune of "When the Saints Go Marching In," adorned in angel attire and led by Jerry Smith, who portrayed Gabriel. A second group did the minuet and sipped tea from imaginary cups and exclaimed that they were having a "perfectly charming time." The third group then intervened with a hopped up version of "When the Saints Go Marching In," consisting mainly of the verse, "we can't wait to graduate." Peg Weakley, author of the story, narrated it as the groups went through the motions. The Senior Will was read by Cynthia Hadley, and the Advice by Norman Dininger. Jack Vannice, junior, read the Class Prophecy as a conclusion to the funny segment.

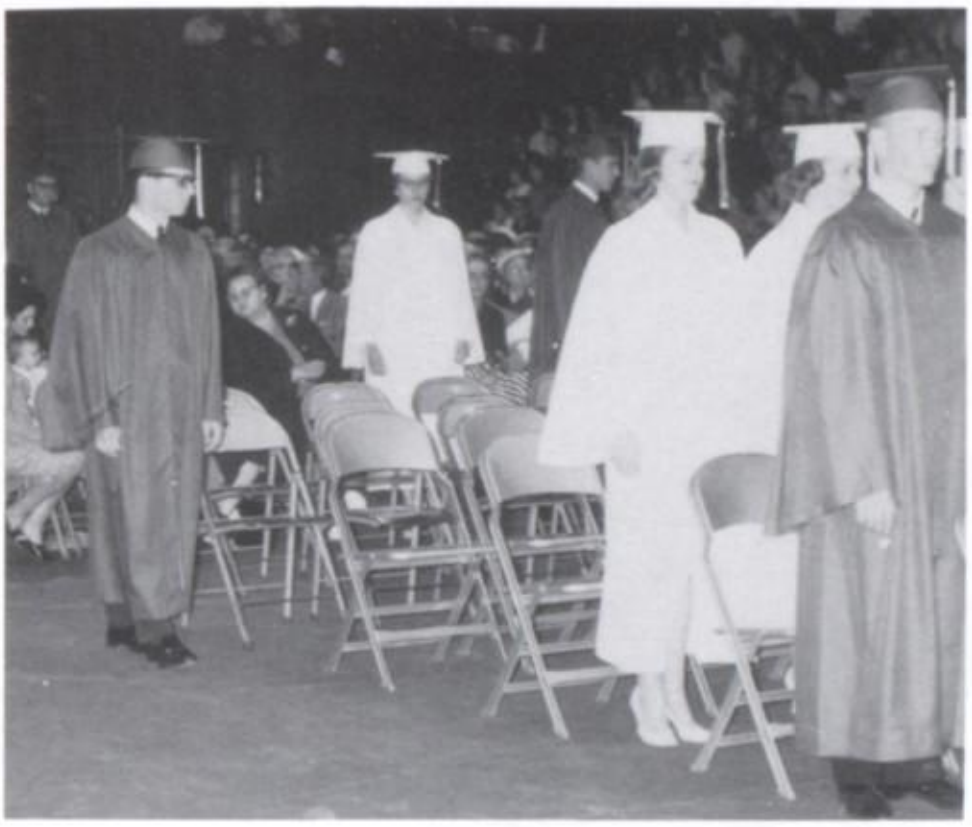
Sally Royals began the serious segment of the program with the reading of a dedicated poem to all senior teachers, that she and Phyllis Underwood wrote. Sherry Pruitt read the Class History, which ended the program.



The seniors in the second group entertained the student body with the minuet.

Chryl Stewart, junior, presented Ed Etienne with a pen set for his help to the juniors.

Bring End To The Seniors' School Day Years



The DHS Band played "Crowning Glory," as the seniors, clad in red and white robes, took their places in the processional.

Reverend Douglas A. Dickey from Williamsport, Indiana, spoke to the seniors about their future lives and plans.

Common Interests Boost New Friendship As Students Learn To Participate Together

Organizations offer opportunities for self-advancement through togetherness and through learning how to work and get along with others. Many new friendships are formed as a result of students, with a common interest, working and participating together in organizational activities. Clubs throughout the years have become as important as sports to the students' morale.

Service and social organizations at DHS are planned to improve the school and community spirit. With our convocations . . . our dances . . . our plays . . . our clubs . . . Life gains a new importance as we join in our varied organizations. They hold an interest for everyone . . . Scholarship, sports, and science are all included in them. Here, in organizations we make friends and learn to work together, for each of us is a part of the whole of DHS.

As life grows longer, together we grow . . . we learn . . we know we can take with us the experiences and knowledge imported to us from our organizations at DHS.

Being a member of the National Honor Society is one of the most cherished honors that can be bestowed upon a high school student.

The members, elected by the faculty, possess the qualities of character, leadership, scholarship, and service. They are inducted into this organization in November of each school year.

It is the purpose of the Honor Society to honor outstanding students from the junior and senior classes. For the first time, five sophomores entered the club as probationary members.

This year the main projects of the Society were the buying of the bulletin boards for the main hall of our school and the selling of Danville Warrior book covers.

Staters Learn Through Experience

Representatives to Hoosier Girls' and Boys' State were Janice Anderson, Sarah Lawson, Sherry Pruitt, Sandy Montgomery, David Parent, Steve Watson, and Norman Dininger.

Juniors having the qualities of scholarship, leadership, and citizenship, are chosen by the faculty and sponsoring organizations each year to attend the American Legion Hoosier Boys' and Girls' State.

These students learned through personal experience about Indiana government. Speech, parliamentary procedure, legislation, and campaigning rounded out a full week's activities.

Hoosier Girls' State sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary was held June 25 through July 3 on the Indiana University Campus. Those attending from Danville High School were Janice Anderson, sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary; Sarah Lawson, sponsored by the Tri Kappa; Sherry Pruitt, sponsored by Epsilon Sigma Alpha; and Sandy Montgomery, sponsored by the Associate Tri Kappa. These girls made Towers their temporary home.

Hoosier Boys' State, sponsored by the American Legion, was held on the Indiana University Campus June 11 through June 13. The three delegates from DHS were Steve Watson, sponsored by the Danville Rotary Club; David Parent, sponsored by Post 118 of the American Legion; and Norman Dininger, sponsored by the Danville Optimists Club. These delegates resided at Men's Quad while participating in the activities.

"We've work to do and it's going to be done, efficiently, quickly, and intelligently," says the TOM TOM Staff and their adviser, Geraldene Huffman. The editors are the guiding light and true foundation of the TOM TOM.

These shining pages bound with work are called the yearbook and are perhaps the truest memento of the teen years. Whether these years were seemingly happy, lonely, or tremendous, each person wants to remember them in his own way.

The TOM TOM recounts the trips, the trials, and the triumphs of each grade. Many hours are put into the creation of a school yearbook.

The TOM TOM is the face, life, and character of each student. Here he is represented for what he is and has accomplished while in school.

Time And Work Produce First-Class Paper

POW WOW STAFF — Front Row: C. Porter, S. Lawson, M. Burnell, J. Piper, I. Van Horn, P. Leavitt, J. Wilson, D. Parent. Second Row: Vivian Gilham, Sponsor, A. Petermann, B. Hoge, T. Cramer, R. POW WOW staff members find Friday to be a hectic day, as they bang out the last line of the dummy and struggle with a stubborn mimeograph machine.

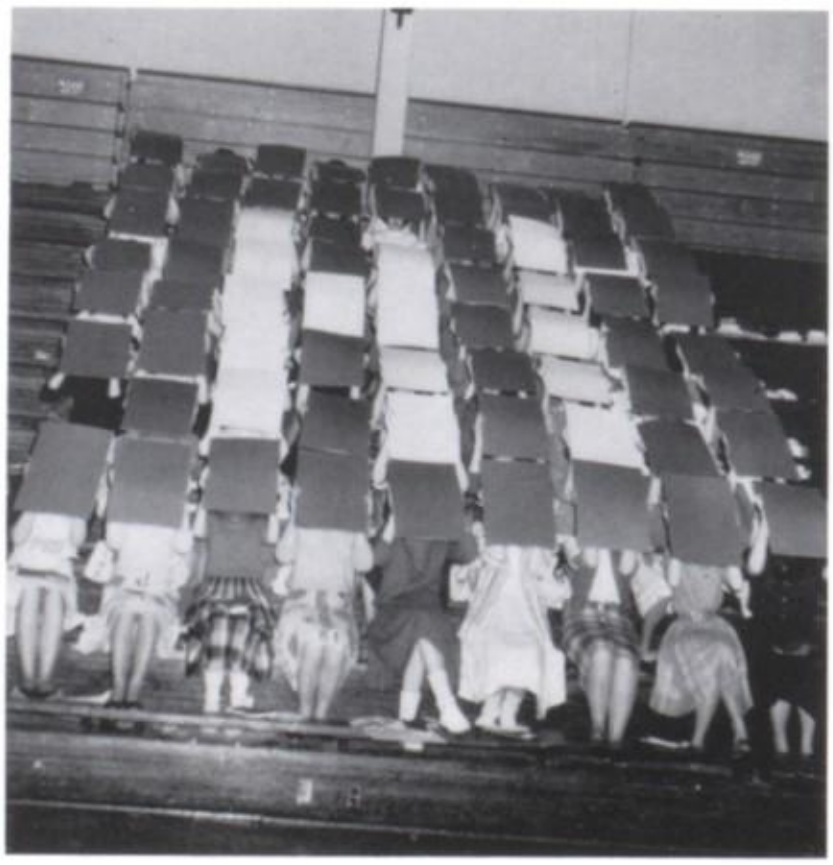
Even before the 175 papers are distributed to subscribers, copy assignments are made for the next Friday's issue.

The first DHS paper appeared in 1908; in 1941 its name was changed from "The Spotlight" to the "Pow Wow". In 1957 the staff began publishing it weekly instead of bimonthly.

Vivian Gilham, commercial teacher, has been the paper's adviser since 1957. The Pow Wow has earned seven consecutive First-Class ratings of the National Scholastic Press Association.

Looking over their work are Janet Piper, Reporter; Carol Porter, News Editor; Dave Parent, Sports Editor; Sarah Lawson, Editor; and Inez Van Horn, Reporter.

Backing the "Fighting Warriors" kept the all-girls' Booster Club busy. Here the white block sports red feathers characterizing the Warriors. To further symbolize the Warriors, cheerleaders Cynthia, Janice, Sandy, and Pat wore Indian outfits and moccasins.



Booster Club members work industriously during a practice session preceding the Sectional Tourney.

The "Mighty Warriors" were enthusiastically supported by the DHS Booster Club. The club, varying its cheer block from week to week, often wore white blouses and red feathers, but the block sometimes sported a large red "D" in its center.

The yell leaders actually head the organization with the assistance of a chairman, who tends to all the bookkeeping of the club, and a sponsor, Louise Dollens. This year the chairman was senior, Judy Evans.

The DHS Booster Club, comprised of ninety-nine regular members, had meetings on Monday of each week during the basketball season to learn new yells and motions.

Girls Serve Community And School

The Girls' Club, the largest and one of the oldest clubs in high school, was formed twenty-six years ago to create a friendlier atmosphere and to maintain high ideals among the high school girls.

In order to create an atmosphere of friendship between the girls of the different classes, the club sponsors a big and little sister system. These big and little sisters exchange gifts at the annual Christmas Banquet.

From the proceeds of its annual magazine sales, the Girls' Club sponsors the Thanksgiving convocation, Thanksgiving baskets for the needy families, the Christmas Banquet, and the Mother-Daughter Banquet, which is held in May.

Membership in Girls' Club is open to all high school girls and women teachers.

During October, the band featured the Senior Twirling Duet, who, insured for $1,000, twirled with fire. Also, highlighting October was the Marching Contest held at North Central High School in which the band received first division.

A Christmas skit with Santa Claus, candy, and lighted batons was the high point of December.

In the District Solo and Ensemble Contest, held at Depauw University, participants received 11 out of 22 first divisions. Six of these first advanced to the State Contest at Broad Ripple High School. Three out of the six contestants again won first divisions.

In March, students from the entire county were invited to participate in the County Music Festival held at Danville. Later in March, the band sponsored a concert by the Evansville All-City Band and Orchestra for both the townspeople and the student body.

The Stage Band made a 1-day tour with the Robed Choir to Brownsburg, Jamestown, and Thorntown, during the month of April. Also in April, the band participated in the Concert Band Contest at Zionsville.

Commencement and the Senior Concert were the projects for May. The Senior Concert, held at the last of May to honor graduating band students, is a new project which was inaugurated last year.

Students And Spectators Plus Teams-Winning Or Losing- Characterize Togetherness In Sports

Sports comprise one of the most important phases of togetherness at Danville High School. During the school year are football, to highlight the crisp fall nights; basketball, to warm the winter days; and tràck and baseball, to calm the spring breezes.

Records broken and games won lend their contribution to the memories that we can take with us from DHS.

Bolstered The 1960 Football Squad

Bob Pedigo, left, assistant coach, and Gene Wilson, head coach, led the Warriors through a hard-fought season.

The Danville Warrior football team played an inspired football year, despite a record of 2-6-1. The squad beat perennial rivals Brownsburg and Mooresville by respective scores of 32-21 and 24-0. They were unfortunate to be tied by Franklin 25-25, for Danville had led at the half. Co-captains, Bob Brock and Steve Watson, along with honorary co-captain, Rusty Davis, piloted the inexperienced and undermanned squad of continuously optimistic young men.

Looking at the materials and experience plus the fact that it was the toughest all-around conference in four years was some consolation to the Warriors. Look for big things to come from the lower grades, thanks to experience and a pair of great coaches.

RUSTY DAVIS

BILL PATTERSON

BOB CLARK

Steve Watson, Co-captain, Honorable Mention All-Conference, with three years of experience, broke his wrist during the first week of practice to come roaring back after the fifth game.

Bob Brock, Co-captain, Left-halfback, Linebacker, Honorable Mention All-Conference, with four years of experience, racked up a lot of yardage with bone-bruising runs. He was presented the Most Valuable Player trophy.

Rusty Davis, defensive and offensive Tackle, second team All-Conference, with four years of experience, set a Mid-State Conference record of blocking ten Extra Point Attempts, along with two punts. He received the Most Improved Lineman trophy.

Bill Patterson, Left Guard, Honorable Mention All-Conference, with three years of experience, has been regarded as one of the best pulling guards in Danville's history on the gridiron.

Bob Clark, offensive and defensive first team End, with three years of experience, played all but eight plays at the offensive right end position all season long. He often made tremendous catches to set up a touchdown and averaged three passes caught per game.

BILL DUNN

BOB DUNN

DAVE CLARK

ART HELBIG

KEN SMITH

Bill Dunn, offensive End, with two years of experience, was most noted for his sparkling catch of an Art Bryant pass at Mooresville. He caught eight passes over a five-game period.

Bob Dunn, defensive End, with two years of experience, was tough at time on defense, but streaks of bad luck plagued him. He often cut down ball carriers at critical times in the game.

Dave Clark, offensive and defensive alternate end, with one year of experience, had to sit out a few games, due to a bad break. However, he came back to assist the Warrior push.

Art Helbig, defensive Tackle and Middleguard, came into his own in the last four games. Timely tackles saved threats from the opponents. A transfer student from Ohio, Art had no previous football experience.

Ken Smith, defensive End, played varsity football for the first time this year. Kenny exerted tremendous effort all season long despite the terrific competition.

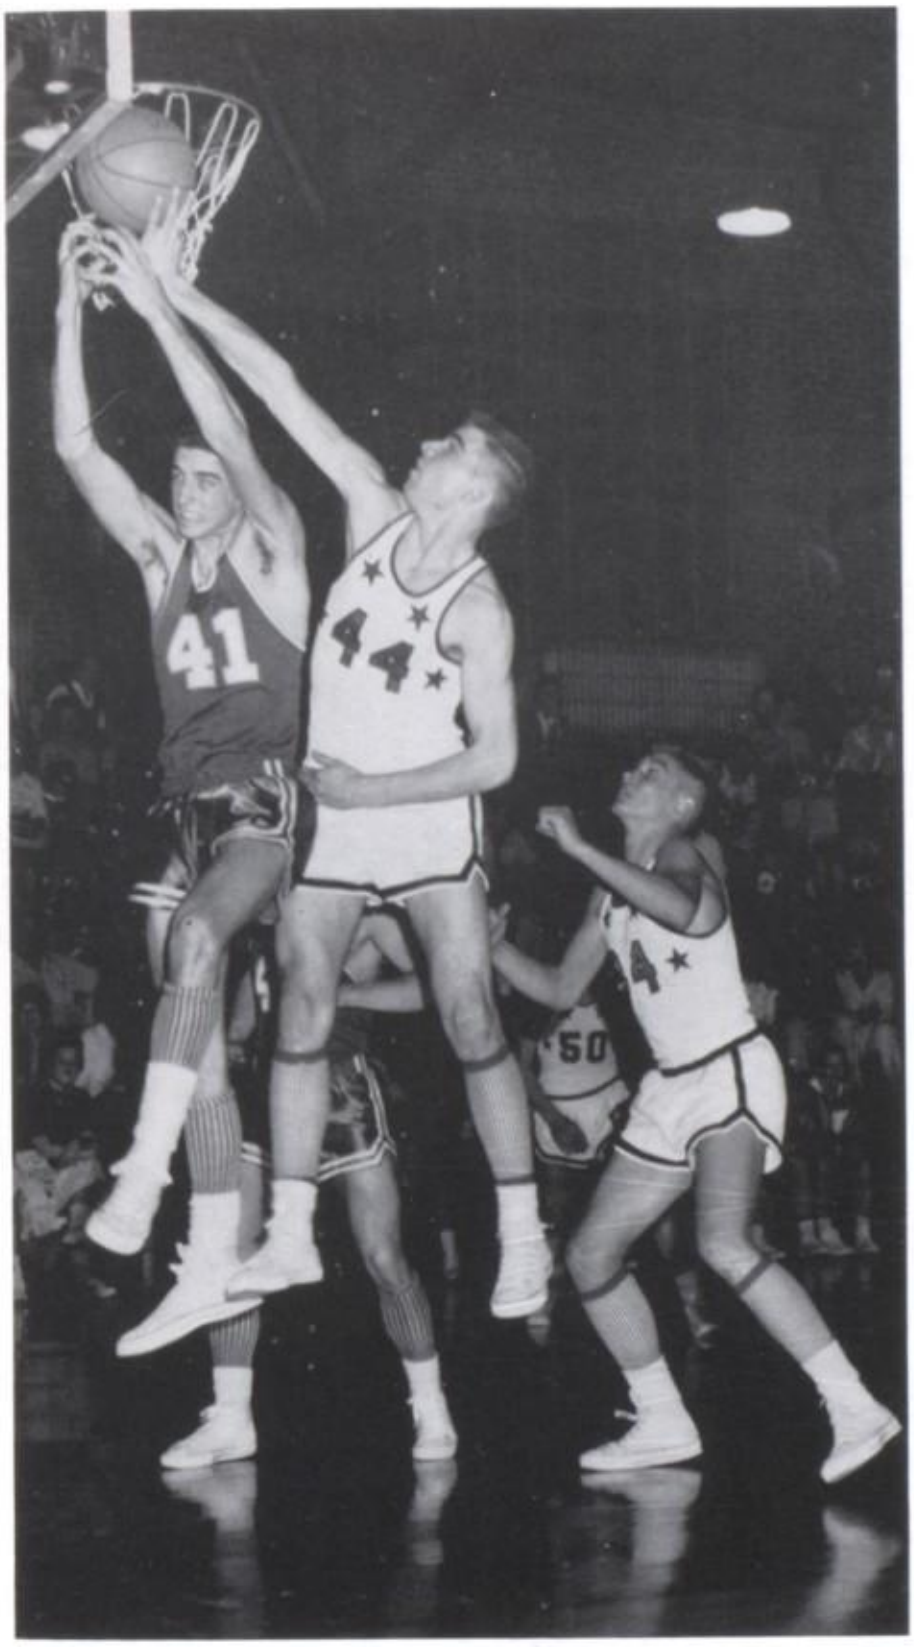
In the 1960-61 Danville High School basketball season, the young Warriors were a much better team than their record shows.

Seniors Bill Patterson, Bob and Bill Dunn led the team to a 5-14 season record, excluding the sectionals and regionals. Several of their losses were thrillers in which they were defeated by narrow margins. Next year's team will have three of the five starters back.

And Drive Promotes Successful Season



J. C. Burnell attempts to tip in a basket as a foe futilely grabs air in a vain attempt for a rebound, during the Brownsburg game. In spite of the Warriors efforts Brownsburg emerged victorious with a score of 50-56.

Coaching the Danville Warriors this year were Bob Etienne, reserve coach, and Max Gibbs, varsity coach.

Bill Patterson, senior, was high-point man during the season three times, and second highest scorer in six games. Bill was fifth in the conference with a total of 110 points. He was second on the team in field goals and free throws; third in rebounds and total points. He had the highest percentage of free throws and held the highest point output with 28 against Decatur Central.

Bill Dunn, senior, was leading scorer once and tied once. He was fifth on the team in field goals, rebounds, and total points. He reached a high point total of 17 against Brownsburg. Bill also had a respectable .379 shooting percentage from the floor.

Bob Dunn, senior, made 16 appearances during the season. His spirit and competitive prowess kept the team going. He was invaluable as strength for Coach Gibbs in many tight spots.

Winning Or Losing . . . Freshmen, Reserve, Varsity

The varsity cheerleaders, Janice, Cynthia, Sandy, and Pat, worked diligently with the Booster Club members to teach them new yells and motions, but most of all they put their hearts into cheering the Warriors on to victory.

Cheerleaders Back Our Teams

For the first time in the history of DHS there were two reserve cheerleaders instead of the customary four. Dana Willis, senior, and Mary Franklin, junior, led the reserve team to a respectable season.

Freshman cheerleaders, Rose Ellen Disney, Marty Martin, and Sally Sutherlin backed their team with peppy yells.

People Learn Togetherness Through Cooperation

People offer opportunities for self-advancement through learning how to work and get along with others. Many new friendships are formed as a result of the administration, faculty, and students working together. This year we are privileged to have working with us, Jake Frey, a German exchange student.

Together we have shared responsibilities, learned the meaning of leadership and self-control, and have unconsciously absorbed spiritual values. We know that these have been formative years at DHS, and we realize that these years are ones of great decision. We also realize that we can take with us the means to continue the American way of life through togetherness.

The Administration

Members of the school board are Robert Barnett, Hugh Weaver, President; Hursel Disney, Vice-President; Lee Himsel, Secretary-Treasurer; and Howard Conley. Also pictured is Merrill Vaughan, Superintendent of Schools, and Secretary, Ruth Jones.

Merrill D. Vaughan, Superintendent of Danville Township Schools, is a graduate of DHS and obtained his M.S. Degree from Butler University in 1949. Mr. Vaughan is an active member of the Hendricks' County Reorganization Committee, which is striving to consolidate some of the neighboring schools with Danville.

The Danville School Board is a group composed of five actual members, who serve for a four year term. The trustee is elected and serves as a duly authorized member of the Board. Two members are appointed by the advisory board and two members are appointed by the town board. The Board disperses and coordinates the sums of money which are involved in the task of operating the local schools. It also makes the final decision on construction and expansion programs.

Guidance, And Faculty

HENRY COX has been the principal of Danville High School since 1958. He was previously vice-principal for two years. Mr. Cox is the sponsor of the Danville Chapter of the National Honor Society and the senior class. Having been in charge of grades eight through twelve, he has built up the scholastic prestige and an efficient school system in DHS. Mr. Cox, a recognized leader, will supervise the local swimming pool for the second consecutive year.

Ruth Jones is the secretary to the superintendent and to the Danville Center Township School Board.

Winifred Cantrell is the secretary to the high school principal.

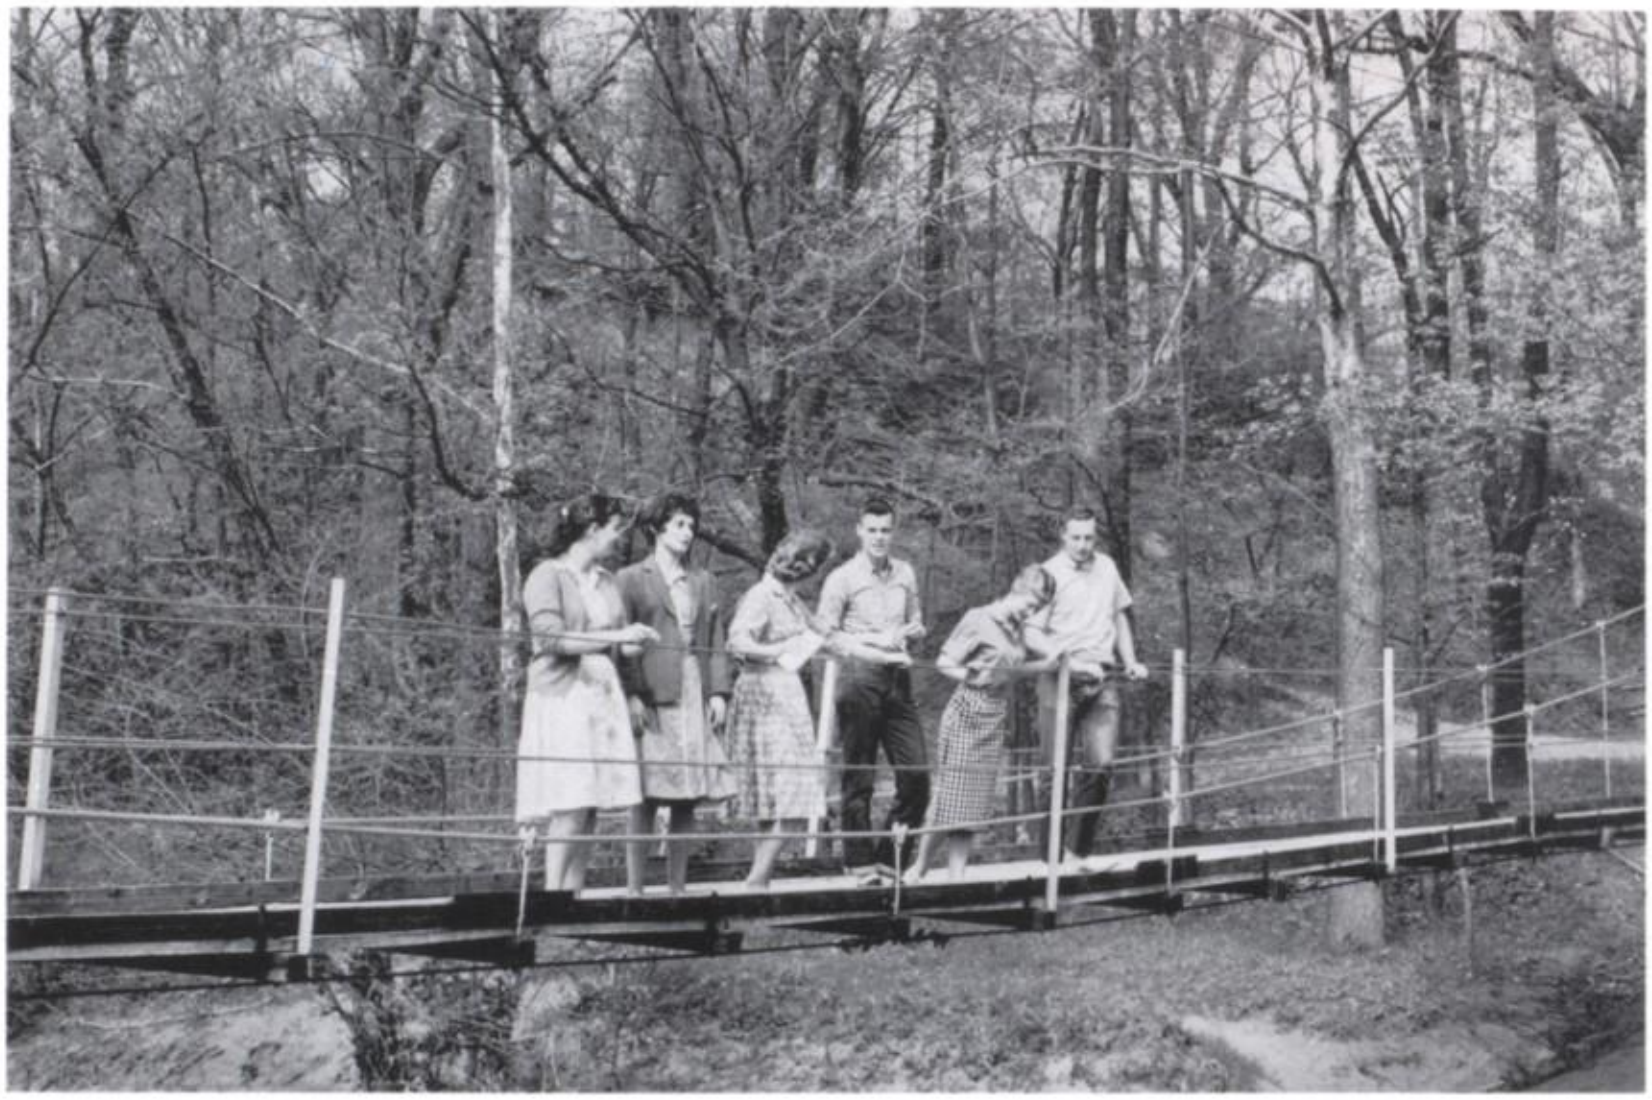
Seniors Cross Bridge To Future



There's a mythical bridge — it's everywhere —
It spans the space from here to there;
And o'er its archway triumphant pass
The annual graduates from the senior class.

The chasm they cross is not so wide;
But beneath them flows a ceaseless tide,
And once across, the bridge, they burn,
For they've left the land of no return.

Associations, friendships — an endless store
And treasured memories forevermore,
Joys and sorrows, dimmed by tears,
Shall keep them company throughout the years.

O happy days, O glorious years,
O times, so free of doubts and fears!
Where'er you go what'er you do
These things and more will go with you.

Guided By Recognized Leaders,

Janice Anderson, Vice-President; Janet Rohn, Treasurer; Steve Watson, President; Henry Cox, Sponsor; and Cynthia Hadley, Secretary, guided the 1960-61 senior class through a successful and fun-filled school year. Not pictured is Bonnie Eggers, also senior class sponsor.

Seniors made DHS a busy place all year long. In the fall they were busy with football games, homecoming festivities, homework and just getting accustomed to the idea of being a "senior." And alas, spring made a showing with only two weeks left of school for the seniors; they finally realized the end was near. Baccalaureate, S e n i o r Day, and Commencement aroused mixed emotions in the 77 seniors as their big year drew to a close.

The class of 1961 proved that "seniors led the way" in many ways. There were four royal seniors among the group who were honored with Homecoming Queen, Snow Queen, May Queen, and Robin Hood.

Seniors led in athletics, too, as four were named to the f o o t b a l l Mid-State Conference Team, and a senior was second in the conference in scoring in basketball.

Seniors walked away with the DAR Award, the Betty Crocker Award, three Good Citizenship awards, and the traditional Nathalie Wheeler Award for scholarship. Three seniors received letters of commendation for exceptional performance in the National Merit Scholarship Test. A senior has been recognized as one of the nation's outstanding pupils of high school English. DHS sent three seniors to the Purdue Legislature, and seniors walked away with firsts in speech contests.

Yes, there were many busy tmes at DHS, but the seniors would not take anything for the memories they made and the fun they had as they realize that what they are to be in their future lives they were becoming in their high school days.

Baccalaureate services were held in the Danville Christian Church, Sunday, May 21. Reverend George Smith delivered the address.

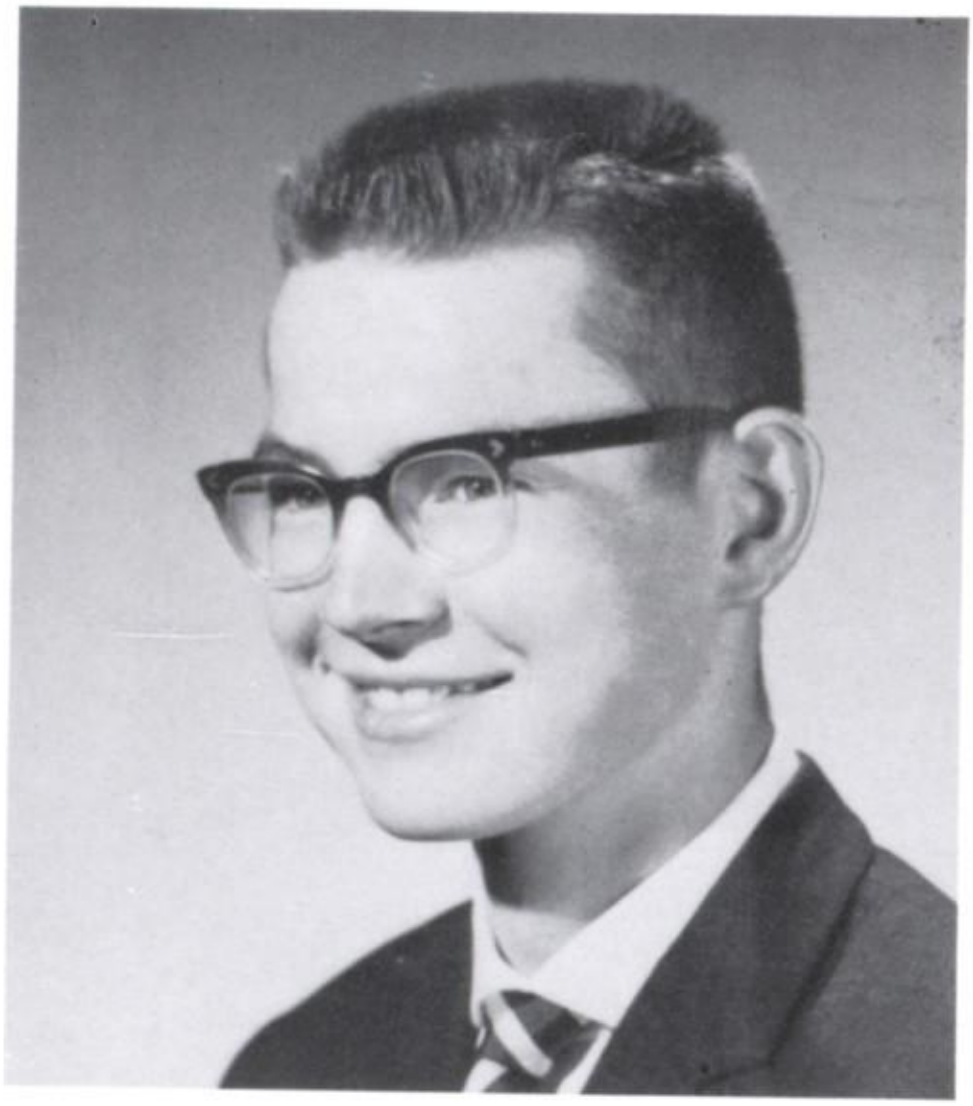
Seventy-seven seniors wearing caps and gowns of the school colors received diplomas at the Eighty-second Commencement in the Bosstick Gymnasium, Friday, May 26, at 8 p.m.

Mr. Douglas A. Dickey, minister of the First Christian Church in Williamsport, Indiana, was speaker for the ceremony.

Eight seniors, Janice Anderson, Judy Evans, Cynthia Hadley, Peg Hamilton, Sarah Lawson, Sandy Montgomery, Sherry Pruitt, and Steve Watson, who graduated cum laude, inaugurated a new custom by wearing gold cords with their graduation gowns.

Judy Evans received the Indiana University Laverne Noyes Scholarship. Cynthia Hadley and Janet Piper received scholarships to Indiana University and Ball State Teachers College, respectively. Sherry Pruitt received the Parent-Teachers' Association scholarship and a scholarship to Purdue University.

Wolfgang "Jake" Frey Proves To Be



Wolfgang "Jake" Frey had a winning smile and an even more winning personality. His presence here has been an enlightening experience for all of us at Danville High School.

Wolfgang "Jake" Frey from Lossburgester 4, Germany was the first foreign student ever to attend Danville High School. His home in Danville was with Mr. and Mrs. Lois Arnold.

During the year Jake became very close to the DHS students. In December he attended the mock Indiana Legislature at Purdue University and was host at a German Christmas Party given for him by the Student Council. GAA girls chose Jake as their candidate for "King of All Young Hearts" for their annual Sweetheart Dance in February. The seniors celebrated Jake's birthday by giving him a surprise birthday party. At the annual May Prom Jake reigned in the May Court.

Although he must finish school in Germany, Jake was treated like a senior and was permitted to participate in Commencement exercises with the other seniors.

We the students and faculty of DHS wish you, Jake, all the success and happiness in the world. We will always hold a warm spot for you in our hearts, for you have added many hours of pleasure to our lives. This, then, is only a small token of our appreciation because there is not enough room to say all we feel.

At Jake's German Christmas party, German cookies were served, and Bob Clark reigned as "Cookie King."

In the speech classes' Christmas Pageant, Jake and Phyllis Underwood portrayed a German family at Christmastime.

"Cool" Exchange Student From Germany

At the Quill and Scroll "Clod Hop," April 15, Jake and Carol Porter were host and hostess to other "clods." Jake was present at all dances and everyone enjoyed his being there, for he always seemed to add to the memories of the occasion.

Students gathered around to listen to Jake's explanation of a German dance. This was only one of the many times students stood attentively listening to his relating German customs.

Bob Lawson and Bob Brock posed for a picture with Jake as he sported his "rebel hat."

Jake Frey and his date, Sally Royals, relax for a few moments between dinner and the dance at the Junior-Senior Reception.

Have Enjoyed Planning The Annual Reception

"Pop Corn", "Candy", "Ice Cream", — these are familiar cries to the juniors. At all home basketball and football games DHS juniors are busy selling refreshments to spectators. The money they earn by running the concession stand is used to finance the annual Junior-Senior Reception, honoring the seniors. The juniors work hard selling and cleaning up after the games in hopes that their reception will be the best ever.

While The Sophomores Discover As Life Grows Longer,

The main project of the sophomore class is to select and buy class rings. Although the sophomores have not had many activities this year, they will be quite busy next year taking care of the junior concession stand and planning the reception. They will look forward to being respected upperclassmen.

Advertising

It is difficult to separate school life from the Danville business life, for both in a sense are dependent upon the other.

Students today patronize local firms, and they will continue to do so tomorrow. The TOM TOM wishes to express its sincere thanks for the cooperation and patronage shown on the following pages by our advertisers.
